POULTRY SHOW OPENED MOST AUSPICIOUSLY

Choice Prizes Awarded
Splendid Birds in Various Classes of City's First Exhibit.

When a few weeks ago, the suggestion was made that there should be a chicken show in Honolulu, not a few months ago, the idea, saying that there were not enough good birds in the country to warrant any such undertaking.

The matter was taken in hand by a few enthusiasts and it was not long before interest in the project grew and the members of the Hawaiian Poultry Association were pulling together as one man to make the suggested exhibition of feathered stock an accomplished fact.

A world of hard work was done and numerous obstacles overcome before the show was finally whipped into shape and the result is a poultry show that would be a credit to any state in the Union.

The big hall on Merchant street, formerly the Advertiser office, was selected for the site of the exhibition and it is there that the various entries are gathered together to the end that everybody may have a chance to see what Hawaii can raise in the shape of poultry and be inspired by the sight to produce even better.

The show includes chickens and pigeons and a most satisfactory number of classes is represented. The prevailing divisions of classes are breeding pens, trios, pairs, cocks, cockerels and hens.

The prizes consist of: 1st, blue; 2nd, red; 3rd, pink; 4th, yellow ribbon, accompanied by a diploma and signed by the president and secretary of the Hawaiian Poultry Association. There are in addition, the following special premiums, offered by Honolulu merchants and others:

GOVERNOR'S STRONG TALK ON MATTERS HAWAIIAN

Governor Carter made a notable address before the Play Club last evening, speaking on the topic, "Uncle Sam and Hawaii." He was introduced by President Horne, of Kamehameha Schools, who said:

"It is indeed fortunate when any body of men can be addressed by the Chief Executive upon any occasion. We are very glad to see our Governor with us (applause) and we shall listen with interest to what he has to say on 'Uncle Sam and Hawaii,' especially as he has been so recently at headquarters. I know I voice the sentiments of every one present when I assure the Governor of a hearty welcome." (Applause.)

THE GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

I read a story the other day of an Irishman who woke up his very soundly sleeping friend with the remark that 'twas time to take his insomnia medicine (laughter). This is perhaps not the proper way to begin, but I want to tell you that I spent last night in taking insomnia medicine and I am not at my best tonight nor in my normal condition. I have not come prepared to do justice to this occasion. I have a little complaint to make of the manager—I see him running away as soon as his name is mentioned—(laughter). He did not tell me that this was to be an address, although the papers and the interesting program in the other room said it was to be an address. I supposed it would be a talk.

When the question of speaking to you was first proposed to me I had just written a letter to the President of the United States and I figured out that by the time that letter reached there and Congress had convened and the President's message had gone to Congress it would be about the time that you would meet. At the time that I wrote that letter, I had an intuition that the message would contain the request made in that letter. I had a feeling, somehow, that the message would contain it.

It is said that the most occult scientists, the most profound thinkers, have been unable to explain fully the workings of the mind and the phenomena that influence it, and we all have probably had intuitions of something which took place later. You can call it mental telegraphy, telepathy or what you wish, but we know it exists. I have had this feeling once or twice before, of one of which it is perhaps proper to speak. It was almost two years ago when Governor Dole informed me that I was expected to make an inaugural address. Mr. Dole said that I must outline my policy. I could have dropped when he told me that and I told him it was all off, that if I had to deliver an inaugural address I would not be Governor. But you know that way of his. He just smiled and said the program would have to be carried out. When he has the way, he cannot be stopped and I had to prepare the address. I read it, but I do not remember a person who was in that room. But, anyhow, I finally came to take up the duties of Governor.

THE STUDY OF LEPROSY.

As I considered the grave responsibilities on my shoulders, I thought of what a great benefit it would be if the government of the United States would undertake the study of leprosy. We have struggled along with the problem. We have taken care of these unfortunate. We have supplied them with the necessities of life and some of its comforts, but we have never been in a position financially to afford the outlay for the study of the disease. But there stood our great, benign country with a treasury full to overflowing, willing to spend millions in the cause of humanity whether in war or in peace, and why not use some of the surplus for these poor lepers? What greater benefit could accrue from the

REVOLUTION INCREASING

Graver Troubles in the Interior and Sharp Runs on the City Banks.

(Associated Press Cablegrams.)

ST. PETERSBURG, December 9.—The revolution in the interior is increasing. Runs on the banks and demands for foreign exchange are growing. Fifty million dollars have been withdrawn from the State bank and the outlook is dark.

JAPANESE TRANSPORT ADRIFT.

CHEFOO, December 9.—A Japanese transport for Jinsen (Korea) with 1000 troops and 300 horses on board from Dalny broke her propeller near the Shantung coast and is adrift.

ENVOYS LEAVING KOREA.

SEOUL, December 9.—Minister Morgan has left the country and the German and British envoys will follow soon.

SENATOR MITCHELL SICK.

PORTLAND, Ore., December 9.—Senator John H. Mitchell is seriously ill.

expenditure of money than that to be had by securing this appropriation?

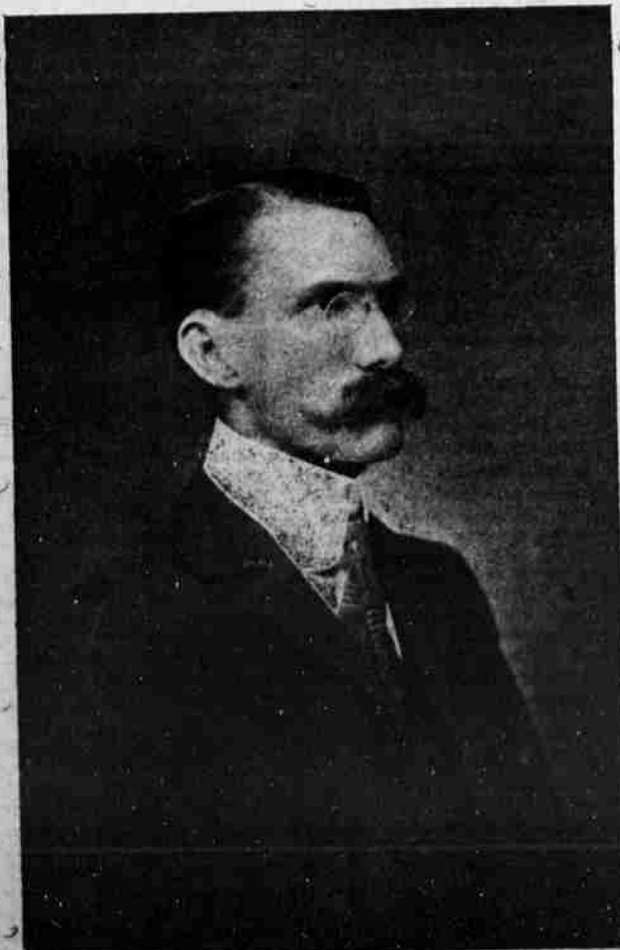

At the time I undertook the task, I did not know how to go at it. I had never undertaken anything of that kind before. So I turned the whole thing over to the Board of Health and suggested that it draw the matter to the attention of the Medical Association. The Medical Association passed resolutions in favor of it and sent a delegate to the National Medical Association about to meet at Atlantic City. Dr. Cooper was that delegate and he did his work splendidly. They passed unanimously a resolution urging upon Congress to make an appropriation for the study of leprosy. It had gone out of my hands and into the hands of others. It was taken before Congress by the chairman of the Public Health committee and the bill was introduced. Then, as so often happens, there came a hitch. Speaker Cannon, in his desire for economy, refused absolutely to allow the bill to be considered. It was thrown off the program. Nothing daunted, Congressman Hepburn, chairman of the committee, went to "Uncle Joe" and said something like this to him: "You and I have been friends for years, but if this bill which I have introduced and reported as chairman of the Public health committee is not put through,

I tell you that you will have the biggest Republican fight on your hands that you ever had."

I had written a number of letters to public men—men whom I did not know, but whom I had heard of—and I felt confident that Congress would pass the appropriation. I told them that this appropriation might lead to the discovery by American skill of the cure to a disease as old as the human race; that we were not asking to have the money spent here for the sake of Hawaii but for the sake of the unfortunate, not alone here but in Porto Rico and the Philippines and all over the world. And my intuition was correct. To speak of Uncle Sam and Hawaii, Uncle Sam has never before had a dusky maiden on his hands. He had flirted with her for many years, but he had refused to invite her into his house. But the maiden got the best of him.

RECIPROCITY AND AFTER.

Without touching on the early things that happened in the history of Hawaiian relations with Uncle Sam, but beginning with the reciprocity treaty, which came about through force of circumstances in which the United States was led to see the advantage which would accrue to her in admitting our Continued on Page 5.)

TO HONOR RECOLLECTION OF DAI NIPPON'S VALIANT DEAD

The Japanese of Honolulu are planning to observe a Memorial Day of their own, in honor of the recollection of the valiant souls of their countrymen who passed into the shadowland during the recent war.

Tomorrow is the day set apart for the first celebration of the festival, which may become an annual occurrence.

There will be religious exercises in Aala Park, commencing at 8 a. m. and as soon as these are over, perhaps an hour and a half later, a procession will form and march to Makiki cemetery, headed by a band.

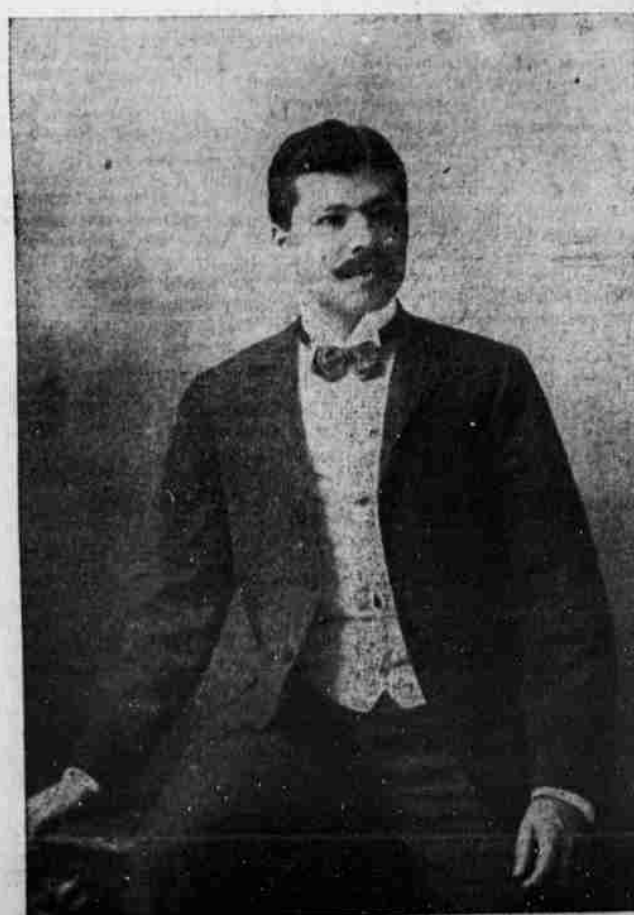

A temporary wooden monument will be erected in the burying-ground, to be replaced at some later date by a permanent memorial.

There are in Makiki cemetery several graves of soldiers and sailors of Japan who have been laid to rest far from their island home and these little mounds will, on Saturday, be reverently decorated with beautiful flowers.

After the program in the cemetery has been completed, sorrow will give place to joy and the throng will return to Aala Park where the afternoon will be spent in witnessing wrestling, fencing and other brave sports.

There will also be some juggling and probably an exhibition of Japanese legerdemain and when the sun has sunk behind the rim of the sea, fireworks will, for a space, sear the sky.

Inasmuch as the day is to be specially set apart for patriotic purposes, it is expected that Japanese servants will very generally be spared, in order that they may participate in the celebration.
